

LOVE UNDER THE SPELL OF TSUNAMI

(435 PAGES HISTORICAL-ROMANTIC HIGH-CONCEPT EPIC BASED ON TRUE EVENTS)

Amid the world's most significant tsunami, earthquake & nuclear disaster in the this decade are born two passionate, idealistic hearts full of promises, hopes, love, and devotion yet separated by the bondage of age-old religious, racial, national, and family traditions. It centers around an American man Ken who falls deeply in love with his college sweetheart Mika from Japan, & ultimately decides to marry. At the last minute, she is shamed, blamed, abused, and tormented for committing the crime of trying to marry a foreigner. He is ultimately given the impossible task of winning her parent's approval.

Imagine, just 200 miles north of World's largest metropolis of 35 million people, Tokyo, the 9.1 richer scale earthquake third largest ever lasting for six long minutes, it's power 600 million times stronger than an Atom bomb & energy released an equivalent to 7 trillion kg of explosives. The quake tilted the earth 25 cm on its axis & slowed the earth's rotation. Japan shifted by as much as 8 feet closer to North America. The disaster most expensive ever cost $ 360 billion, with over 14000 aftershocks, over 1.2 million buildings totally or partly destroyed, & countless town after town turned into a giant mausoleum.

Now Imagine the largest tsunami in recorded human history, as high as 133 feet coming at 500 miles per hour and striking the Japanese coast for 2000 km in "apocalyptic" horror wiping countless towns from the map in just a few minutes. The disaster continued with a three-nuclear plants in Fukushima meltdown leaving thousands of inhabitants helpless & abandoning their homes and towns & becoming refugees in a matter of hours. It is a courageous & resilient story of how inhabitants survive horrible circumstances.

Under this epic-scale adventure, a passionate love affair is a recurring theme under the gazing eyes of unloving families & friends. Will their twenty long years of separation four continents across, four countries large, nine cities deep, come to a happy ending? Will Ken once humiliated for not being worthy enough for his lady, fulfill the promise & reach the heights of attending Harvard. Could Mika finally escape from her controlled abusive home to freedom in the arms of America? Will the traumatized & damaged people from their destroyed cities protect & save themselves from tsunamis, earthquakes & nuclear radiation? Will the US armed forces be able to guide, support & aid Japan in disaster relief? And finally, how will we save ourselves & loved ones from the next large natural disaster as scientists predict it?

A 435-page epic-scale historical fiction has been based on actual events with over 85 characters in an exciting, captivating & authentic approach. The book is written in third-person narration & epic prose & takes us to Hawaii, Boston, New York, Idaho, India, & Japan in the past 35 years.

It is one of the most profound, extraordinary love stories ever told. It's an unforgettable story about personal loss, fear, trauma, misery, despair, and injustice, along with human resilience, grit, hope, unconditional love, courage, forgiveness, and freedom during and after personal & natural disasters and how it shapes the human psyche afterward.
